Despite the announcement of the engagement of $2,500,000 in gold for shipment to Europe on Saturday next the trend of values on the Stock Exchange was upward and with very few exceptions the closing prices yesterday showed an advance on the final sales of Wednesday, ranging from 1/4 to 3%. The volume of siness was very large, the transactions in Sugar being nearly two-thirds of the aggregate sales. London was a heavy seller of St. Paul at the opening, which depressed the stock temporarily, but there was good local buying in all the grangers to cover short contracts which counteracted the influence of the foreign selling in St. Paul.

At the opening a firm tone prevailed in the general market and except for a slight reaction at the end of the first quarter of an hour prices under the leadership of Sugar continued to advance. Up to 11:30 Cotton Oil common and preferred, Minnepolis & St. Louis preferred, Lake Shore d the grangers were also prominent in the market. The attack on Sugar checked the advancing movement, not alone in that tock, but in the market at large, and peculation turned into the afternoon rath-r heavy. Sugar was first to shake off the lepression, but after a recovery of 1 per ent, there was another reaction in which ures brought buyers to the rescue and the stock again took an upward turn, followed by the rest of the shares traded in. Sugar fell off a fraction during the early part of the first hour, but became very strong in the final trading and touched the highest point of the day at the close, making a gain of 3% per cent. while the preferred recorded an advance of 1 per cent. The general market also was in good tone in the late dealings and closed strong at or the late dealings and closed strong at or within a small fraction of the best prices of the day. The City and the Railways. To the Editor of the Indianapolis Journal: The railroad theories of the Commercial Club, which are occasionally considered by others, must be read by practical railroad men with a great deal of amusement. The article in the Journal of the 7th inst., credited to Mr. M. R. Moore, superintendent of the Atlas engine works, giving his idea how to reduce to a minimum the casualties and delays incident to the railroads rossing our streets at grade, is certainly deserving of credit for its originality if for nothing else. Of course, there are some features embodied therein that doubtless could be carried out, and at much less expense than could some of the other schemes that have appeared in the public prints from time to time. For instance, the building of a Union Station on the Belt, where grounds could be secured so much cheaper than near the center of the city. It is possible the Indianapolis Union Railway Company could sell its property within the city limits or more than enough to buy ground and construct a station adequate to the needs of the railroads centering here for years to come, but after we had that, what of it? What benefit would it be to the city or the citizens? Practically none.

What has helped to make Indianapolis, as it is to-day, one of the largest and best inland cities in the country, as much as has the railroads? Nothing, and why? For the very good reason that our united railroads center under one shed, in one depot, centrally located, easy of access to all parts of the city, where the travelers and business men en route from east' to west, or vice verva, can stop over for an hour or two, or from one train to anther, and view the beauties and points of interest thereof, that give them food for thought for years o come. This could not be done were the Union Station moved two or more miles in either direction, as would be necessary to get a suitable location on the Belt railway. Thus all the advantages that have been accorded us for all these years, which have made Indianapolis famous as a railroad center and brought millions of capital here, would be wiped out of existence. But this of itself would be of small moments ment compared to the loss of business the manufacturers and the city at large would sustain were the steam engines driven out of the city, or at least that part of them denominated switching engines—as is proposed by Mr. Moore—and the work done by electric motors handling one car at a time. This looks well on paper, but it is just as impracticable as it would be to turn the course of water up hill. For example, I will pick out a few of our manufacturers. Take Kingan & Co., the Acme mills, G. T. Evans, the Indianapolis Hominy Mills, the National starch works. It would be impossible to to get enough electric motors around these industries to do one-half their business, handling one car at a time, to say nothing of the more than two hun-dred other industries within the city limits, handling from one to hundreds of cars each week. I ask, in all candor, how many motors it would take to do this work, nandling one car at a time? Speaking without statistics, they would be so thick there would not be one minute in the day of twenty-four hours when there would not one of them crossing the streets, and so close together, one after the other, that the lives of pedestrians would be endan-gered tenfold more than at present. Speaking of the comparative dangers of steam as against street or electric railways. lease take the files of our dily papers for he past year, and you can find recorded therein two, yes, five personal casualties nappening on the electric railways where you find one happening on the steam railways within the city, yet that is no reason or argument why the electric railways should elevate their tracks; for investigation will show that in 99 per cent. of all such accidents, but for the carelessness of the injured person, there would have been no accident. These are facts based on actual occurrences, as chronicled day by day, and not on theoretical hearsay. Then, why would it not be better for the Commercial Club and its followers to spend some of their valuabe time and influence in educating and advising citizens that to meddle with either electric or steam cars is dangerous, and if they, the people, will stay away from such cars except on business, the cars will not bother them; hence there will be fewer accidents, and the necessity of moving the Union Station, elevating the tracks, etc., will be obviated.

Indianapolis, Dec. 13.

Miss Willard's Mistake. Philadelphia Inquirer. Miss Frances Willard has undoubtedly done much good and nobody will be in-clined to speak lightly of her efforts in the cause of temperance. Now, however, she omes forward and not only deprecates theater-going, but advocates the appointment of a censorship for the theater, and government ownership of newspapers. As to the amusement question her suggestion may be disposed of as thoroughly impracticable, and as to the government owning newspapers-well, the "cuckoo" organs of the recent campaign must have shown what would be the outcome if the press of the whole country had been controlled by the administration. No doubt Miss Willard means well, but when she starts out to reform the world at the wrong end we can say of her as the engineer did of the bull which charged the flying locomotive, that we admire her pluck, but have little faith in her judgment.

The Pooling Bill.

Washington Special. Stripped of its verbiage, the railroad ooling bill, which passed the House by a vote of 166 to 110, puts the railroads in com-plete control of the situation, and while it seemingly gives to the interstate commission considerable authority in the premises, it really merely tolerates that somewhat moldy body and confers on it only supervisory grace. The Cooper amendment, which was trampled under foot, endowed the commission with veto power. The negative votes nearly all came from the West and South. The pooling bill stands an ex-cellent chance of success in the Senate, where corporation influences do The powerful and aggressive lobby which has been in Washington in the interest of the measure ever since Congress resumed its sittings is hilarious and considers the battle as good as won. "The bill will now go to its friends."

CAGO AND DECLINED 7-SC.

Somewhat Firmer Tone in Provisions, and the Close Showed All Lines at Slight Advances.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.-Wheat was dull and weak to-day under discouraging cables, large Northwestern receipts and liquidation, closing %c lower for May. May corn closed 1/2c lower; May oats, 1/4c lower, and provisions at slight advances.

Wheat ruled slow and featureless for the greater part of the session. Northwestern receipts were again considerably larger than on the same day a year ago and the reports of refreshing rains over considerable areas in the Southwest. The local receipts were also bearish, being 40 per cent. larger than expected. The clearances from the seaboard were generous, but business was so slack that it had practically no effect and there was an easy undertone. May sold at 59%c and 59%@59%c, split, held steady for a time, but finally weakened to 59%c at noon. The market continued weak during the last hour and May closed at 59c. Closing cables were all weak and longs got discouraged and liquidated freely. Corn was slow and steady until shortly before the close, selling a fraction above and a fraction below yesterday's close, but keeping at near the closing figure. The local receipts were somewhat larger than expected and Pardridge sold heavily, but the offerings were readily absorbed and there was but little reduction. The estimate for to-morrow is small-69 cars-but it did not help much. May sold at 50%e to 50%@50%c, off to 50%@50%c. The weakness in wheat near the finish sent prices down and May closed at 50c. Business in the oats market was inclined to be more active, but prices declined in sympathy with the weakness in corn. Sell-sympathy with the weakness in corn. Selling was more general. May started steady at 32% @32%c, sold at 32%c and the close showed the market for May at 32½ @32%c. Hog products were strong and higher early on the fact that hog receipts were 13,000 less than estimated and prices at the yards decidedly higher. Shorts were good buyers, but there was very little for sale. Trade got very dull during the last sale. Trade got very dull during the last May pork, lard and ribs each closed 21/20

75c@$1.62. THE IRON TRADE.

Lowest Prices of the Year Touched in

Some Markets. CLEVELAND, Dec. 13.-The Iron Trade Review this week says: A further weakening of iron and steel values has taken place within the week, and in some markets the lowest prices of the year have been touched. This is true of Bessemer and of Northern foundry irons, except in the Chicago market, where the marked concessions of some weeks past were recently withdrawn. While a November and December accumulation of iron has been looked for with an attending fall in prices, actual transactions have discounted all allowances. Bessemer pig has sold as low as $9.50 in the valley, the equivalent of $10.15 at Pittsburg. Among makers of Bessemer iron there is a caution about entering into low-priced contracts begotten of the coke strike experience of May and June. Car and locomotive building is more active and the prospects in these directions are much more encouraging. In the central West there is a fair amount of business in plates on ship building and bridge contracts. The demand for beams and channels on architectural account is light, but there is a good deal of figuring on work that is to come up next year. Indeed, the chief encouragement in all departments of the iron and steel trades is derived from the expectation of an expansive demand in the early months of 1895. If present volume and prices were taken alone as the basis of judgment the opinion would be far from Outlook in the East. NEW YORK, Dec. 13 .- The Iron Age tolay says: Unfortunately there is no chance that a sufficient amount of work will be placed to stop the savage struggle for work during the next few months. Even the most sanguine defer the dawn of betthe most sanguine defer the dawn of better days until spring. The steel rail makers have suffered some disappointment since they find buyers determined to wait until they actually need the rails on the track before they place any orders. Pittsburg reports some activity in Bessemer pig for delivery during the first quarter of 1895 at $10.15 to $10.25. Relatively little has been done in steel billets which are had at $15.25. There is some talk that considerable purchases for future delivery have been made in the wire trade, the present very low prices evidently being an induce-ment to buyers. There is a fair amount of structural work coming into the market from some of the leading cities, and there are some car and locomotive orders over which there is a lively scramble. Plates are exceedingly dull, and, generally speaking, the whole line of rolling mill products is suffering from competition run mad. In foundry iron the attitude of the local producers in the Chicago district can be testi-fied by time. In other sections some of the large makers show a disposition to refrain from cutting. But there is ample evidence that the smaller producers are powerful enough to set a pretty uncomfortable pace.

Will Wait for an Advance. NEW YORK, Dec. 13.-The executive ommittee of the board of directors of the Tennessee Iron and Coal Company met here to-day and decided that no further sales of iron would be made until an advance in price shall have been established. The amount of the advance has not been agreed on. The company now has 172,000 tons of iron sold ahead.

Elsewhere. CHICAGO, Dec. 13 .- The cattle market had a good tone to-day under the stimulus of continued moderate recepits and better demand. Dressed beef and shipping steers were salable at prices ranging from $2.90@ 3.25 for very common to $6@6.10 for extra, with fancy Christmas steers as high as $6.40. Sales of cows and heifers were only at $1.75@2.75, and a fair amount of trading in stockers and feeders was done on a basis of $2@3.50 for common to prime. The close was firm.

Higher prices were paid for hogs to-day. The arrivals continue to fall below the numbers looked for. The best of the heavy weights were wanted at $4.70@4.75, $4.45@4.50. Compared with the lowest price Tuesday these quotations show an advance of 15@20c per 100 lbs. The bulk of the 260 to 350-pound hogs sold at $4.45@4.65. Averages of from 200 to 250 pounds sold principally at $4.35@4.60, and from $4.30@4.45 were popular prices for lighter weights. ep and lambs were in good demand and feeling was firmer, but the majority of the stuff changed hands on a basis of former quotations. Most of the sales of sheep were at $2.25@3 and from $3.25@3.75 took the bulk of the lambs. Extra sheep were saleable around $3.25 and extra lambs would have brought $4. To the Editor of the Indianapolis Journa The decision rendered by the Appellate Court yesterday in the case of Boos vs. the State, on the relation of Sliney, forcibly illustrates one of the odd, if not disgraceful features of our present liquor law. A saloon keeper sold liquor to a minor violation of the statute. The minor came intoxicated, fell in the river, and was drowned. The father of the lad sued the saloon keeper on his bond and recovered a judgment for $670. The court says that the keeper wrongfully and in motion a which resulted in the death of lad, and is therefore liable on his bond damages, because it was his wrongful act which resulted in the boy's death. could not plead his license in defense. cause the sale was a violation of the stat-

Let us suppose it a slightly different case; that instead of selling to a minor the sale had been made to an adult, with a wi and five or six children dependent on him for their support; that he became intoxcated from the whisky, fell in the river and drowned. In this case what remedy would the wife and children have for the wrong inflicted on them? None whatever. into court with his license and show in fense that the State had authorized him to do with impunity just what he did. The State did not authorize the saloon teeped to "put in motion the force" which killed the minor, but it did authorize him 'to cut in motion the force" which killed the husband and father and deprived the wife and children of their support. Is not the bare thought that such a statute has een suffered to remain on our statute NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Pig from dull; beople on the earth?
